We asked her what she’d say to a woman who might be considering the same thing. “I would say to her that they are giving up so much more than they think they are,” she replies. “For example, even if they have the ability to be a mum, they are losing that time and they don’t realize it, but they have to be home with the kids.” (As for her own goals, Julia says she’s lucky to have such an easy day-to-day existence in her new life. She can travel with children as young as 10, and is free to go on vacation to places like Australia, or just write full time for a national magazine or magazine anywhere.
